

CLIMATE ACTION PROJECT

It was a bright morning in Thane and the hour which me and my team awaited came. It was Thursday 14th of October 2021 where we represented Billabong High International School Thane West (India) in a virtual meeting held between various schools and colleges of various countries. We were guided by our teachers including Vasudha Masur, Shivani Gharat and Ranjana Solanki.

In this virtual meet call I encountered many factors that could have been the main causes of climatic changes around the world. During interaction with different schools around the world, we did learn many new aspects regarding global warming and climate change.

The various schools and colleges that participated in the meeting were Sterling Integrated International College (Nigeria) , Adventist College of Yaounde (Cameroon) , EBS Pinheiro (Portugal) , Vocational Agriculture Training Center of Sidi Bouzid (Tunisia) and Billabong High International School (Thane , India)

This interaction and discussion was held in a playful method like quiz, where both teachers and students participated. I answered a lot of questions raised by other students, to which I gave prompt and excellent explanation and won the appreciation of the heads of the event. Thanks to Billabong High International School which developed our knowledge and made us stand our heads raised high amidst other nations.

I played many quizzes and saw many ppt's related to climatic changes. We brought forth our country India's efforts and promises to reduce carbon footprints by the year 2030 by about 33-35%, things like sustainable development goal 13 and cooperation and protection of nature. We brought forth our views cautioning the threats of climate change, which is today's greatest threat towards development and how much we have to consider global warming in a serious aspect and take quick steps together to prevent global hazards by limiting global warming mainly in the terms global temperature increase reducing 2 degree celsius In our daily life.

According to me the meeting was pretty good and smooth and I learnt many things and even the different climate and behaviour of the students of our other countries I highly enjoyed and loved talking to other teachers and students. I was highly appreciated by teachers of other countries which made my day happy. I answered many questions and even loved the answers of the other students. So being an EVS student I enjoyed the discussion on climate change. Yeah sooo.... That's it, Peace out :)
